

WARNER BROS. PRODUCTION SOUND & VIDEO SERVICES

A full-service technology department dedicated to providing the best possible technical and creative support to all productions, on and off the lot. In addition to supplying audio, video, streaming and playback equipment, we tailor each package to the individual needs of each production, and even the preferences of each operator.

Our department creates and cultivates personal relationships with the productions and the people who return season after season, as well as taking the time to listen to and understand the needs and specific requirements of any new production working at WB for the first time.

Our inventory of cutting-edge new technology is balanced with an impressive collection of tried and true industry standard gear, so we can satisfy the demands of both the young lions and the veteran operators.

OUR PEOPLE

Our dedicated staff has the knowledge and industry experience to help troubleshoot and correct any issue in short order, keeping productions on schedule and under budget.

Our engineers have the skills and the imagination to develop, modify, and in some cases invent equipment designed to do the thing needed to get the perfect take.

In a changing world that is becoming more and more crowded with radio frequencies, Warner Bros. Studios has earned the reputation of having the cleanest wireless, thanks to the decades of experience and expertise our department has acquired coordinating all frequencies used by every production.

OUR SERVICES

- We provide full-service audio and video packages to all multi-camera and single camera productions, including all wireless equipment and coordination, custom cart and stage installs, director carts, second unit and remote, support room monitors, audience sound reinforcement and video display, and secure HD streaming of rehearsals, network run throughs, and tapings. We also install and maintain hard line stage feeds to production offices anywhere on the lot.
- We provide and maintain communications, including lot-wide walkie talkies and wireless or wired PL systems. Nothing happens on a set without communication.
- We design and implement custom motion graphics, provide video assist packages, and color correction services for digital acquisition.
- We design, build, install and staff event packages, from live concerts to corporate meetings and everything in between.
- Most importantly, we are here, on the lot, to assist quickly with whatever unforeseen circumstances arise. Just give us a call and we can be at your stage in about two minutes.
